

Abstract

Inhibitors of cytokine synthesis in nonimmune, resident ocular surface cells are useful for treating dry eye disorders and other disorders requiring the wetting of the eye.